

KAZUMA MITCHELL

*Family, friends, girlfriend...I always think that
I want to cherish and never hurt those people close to me.*

Kazuma grew up in the upper side of NY and came to Japan at the age of eight. In 2018, he was enrolled in Harvard University straight after graduating from high school. At first, he was enrolled into an ordinary Japanese elementary school and had a hard time because he could not speak Japanese at all. Because of his smooth operation of all things and fine looks, it may seem Kazuma is unapproachable but his tone of voice is very mild and is a boy who laughs a lot. Currently, he is the exclusive model for the magazine MEN’S NON-NO. At the age of four Kauma started flute. When he entered junior high, he joined a Jazz band and started saxophone. “I asked my parents to let me play flute when I saw the prince play flute in the movie Little Mermaid” Kazuma explained a cute episode. He showcases his saxophone performance within some songs of the group. Since he was little Kazuma was interested in variety of things like manga, anime, game and soccer, and analyze himself as “once I start something

I want to be really good at it, so I’m pretty geeky and I hate to give up.” Right now, he not only engage in music but also models and take acting lessons to become an actor in the future. “All of them are fun but I’m also interested in the scientific subjects that I’m studying at school… I can still continue that while doing my music, so I have no idea what I’ll become in the future.” Kazuma says in a smile. He seems to have an infinite possibility. “After debut, I’m seen by more people so I always keep in mind to maintain a top class attitude for fashion, posture and so on.” Kazuma has a high level of awareness but at the same time, he can be clumsy to the people around him, and when he is with his close friends Kazuma lets loose and have fun like any other boy of his age. But there is something that never change, that is “family, friends, girlfriend… I always think that I want to cherish and never hurt those people close to me.” Kazuma is and always will be a generous and caring man.
